

JOURNAL OF BLACK SEXUALITY AND RELATIONSHIPS (University of Nebraska Press)

JAMES C. WADLEY, PHD, EDITOR

ABOUT

The Journal of Black Sexuality and Relationships is devoted to addressing the epistemological, ontological, and social construction of sexual expression and relationships of persons within the African diaspora.

The journal seeks to take into account the transhistorical substrates that subsume behavioral, affective, and cognitive functioning of persons of African descent as well as those who educate or clinically serve this important population.

Quantitative, qualitative, and conceptual, articles, book reviews, and letters to the editor address various cultural substrates (e.g., age, race, gender, sexual orientation/identities, ability, spirituality, etc.) that intersect or weave themselves in/out of sexual expression, romantic relationships, and/or friendships. Interdisciplinary in nature, the journal includes perspectives from a variety of fields including psychology, sociology, education, psychiatry, human development, social work, social policy, and anthropology.

REACH & INFLUENCE

Since its conception in 2013 by its founder and Editor-in-Chief, James Wadley, the JBSR has grown to be a worldwide scholarly phenomena. Produced quarterly, the journal is available at over 1300 institutions around the world via Project Muse. As an interdisciplinary medium, the JBSR sheds light upon the continuum of sexuality, race, and gender. Advertising in the JBSR creates a new and exciting pathway for you, your constituents, institution, organization, upcoming conferences, and program to expand its global influence.
